Alexandros Papadiamantis' masterpiece novella comes to the stage of Lambeti Theatre. On Saturday, November 21, we will watch it together, with organized transfer from Corinthia and the ticket already included in the price.

Departure: from Xylokastro and Kiato.

We depart in the afternoon by air-conditioned coach and arrive directly at the theatre, on Alexandras Avenue. No driving in Athens, no searching for parking, and no worries about the return journey — just an evening of intense theatre with your company.

What you will experience

- A classic of Greek literature: "The Murderess" by Papadiamantis, one of the most important works of modern Greek prose, in a theatrical adaptation.
- The story of Fragogiannou: An elderly woman in an isolated island village, who weighs the fate of the young girls around her on her own dark terms — a work about crisis, guilt, and the society that passes judgment.
- Worry-free transfer: Coach from Xylokastro and Kiato straight to the theatre and back.
- Ticket included in the price: The 40 € per person price includes the show ticket and coach transfer, with a tour leader-escort the entire way.

Excursion itinerary

In an isolated island village, Hadoula, known as Fragogiannou, spends her nights awake beside her sick granddaughter, reflecting on a life dedicated to the service of others — her father, her husband, her children. The thought that women are born only to suffer drives her to a dark, tragic decision. Papadiamantis' classic work examines guilt, sacrifice, and the status of women in Greek society, through a story that remains just as powerful today.

We depart in the afternoon from Xylokastro and Kiato for the Lambeti Theatre, at 106 Alexandras Avenue. After the performance ends, we head back, making the same stops.
